

30 Second Radio Spots

- Hear some of the country's leading experts on livestock, horses, forages, stock dogs and more. See winning classic tractors, country music star Steve Holy, AgriTalks Mike Adams, and even Missouri's Director of Agriculture Dr. Jon Hagler. Visit with friends at the trade show or over a free beef supper and a free Governor's style lunch. It's all happening at the Missouri Livestock Symposium December 4th and 5th at the Kirksville Middle School Complex. Doors open at 4 pm Friday and 8 am on Saturday. And, except for concert tickets, it's all free! Details at www.missourilivestock.com or call 660-665-9866.
- Lee Leachman and Dee Griffin are just two of the 35 nationally known speakers from 11 states who headline this year's Missouri Livestock Symposium to be held December 4th and 5th at the Kirksville Middle School Complex. Doors open to the Ag-related trade show at 4 pm on Friday and again 8 am on Saturday. Nationally syndicated AgriTalk host Mike Adams speaks after the free beef meal on Friday night and the Steve Holy concert is Saturday night. All is free except concert tickets. For more details call 660-665-9866 or go to www.missourilivestock.com.
- Beef cattle, horse, sheep, meat goat, and forage producers won't want to miss the 2009 Missouri Livestock Symposium on December 4th and 5th at the Kirksville Middle School. Doors open Friday at 4 pm and again Saturday at 8 am. The Friday program features AgriTalk host Mike Adams, a free beef supper at 6 pm, and a talk on "Agriculture under Attack". Speakers from 11 states are on the program for Saturday along with a free Governor's Style lunch at noon and country music star Steve Holy concert at 8 pm Saturday night. Except for concert tickets it's all free! For more details call 660-665-9866 or go to www.missourilivestock.com.

